

Find your way to the fossils!

In the field, paleontologists use maps, compasses and global positioning units to find fossil localities. A great deal of time is spent hiking from site to site. Can you make your way to the locality to excavate the fossil?

